

Shakespeare's LLM

An AI Assistant and Information Retrieval System , in Shakespearen Style created by Abhinav Tamta.

Below is a Shakespeare LLM made by Abhinav Tamta.

It performs the following functions

- 1.) Shakespearen Web Search : Shakespeare returns top Search result from the web.(in shakespearean English)
- 2.) Shakespearen News Article Search : Shakespeare tells 20 top news about your query.(in shakespearean English).
- 3.) Shakespeare Mathematical Calculator: Shakespeare answers your Math problem consisting of Basic Arithmrtic , Trignometry , Exponential and Logarithmic Functions ,Complex Numbers,Matrices and Linear Algebra,Statistics, Calculus,Units and Conversions, Symbolic Computation,Parsing and Evaluating Expressions.
- 4.) Ask Shakespeare Anything: Ask shakespeare about anything , he will answer you in his signature style.(shakespearean english).

An important point to note is that the semantics or the intended meaning , which can be lost if the direct conversion of English sentences to Shakespearen Sentnences are done.This way which I came up with is different , original , unique and better than the traditional translational approach and provides more accurate results for sentences which have modern words and terms which were absent in the Shakespearen era.

Web Search function made

Shakespeare provides the web Search results about your query (in shakespearen English).

Ask Shakespeare about Anything|Asketh shakespeare about aught|
Ask the question whose answer you seek: Explain about the universe in detail
Verily, let me speak of the vast expanse that is the universe. It doth stretch beyond all reckoning, and doth contain all that we know and more. It is a tapestry of stars and galaxies, each one a marvel to behold.

In this universe, there are wonders beyond count, from the swirling gas clouds that birth new stars, to the black holes that devour all in their path. There are planets and moons, each unique in their own way, and each with their own secrets to be discovered.

And yet, for all its vastness, the universe is but a small part of the greater cosmos. There are dimensions beyond our own, realms of existence that we can only imagine. It is said that there are beings of great power and wisdom that dwell in these realms, beyond our reach and understanding.

But even as we strive to comprehend the mysteries of the universe, we are reminded of our own smallness in the face of its grandeur. We are but insignificant specks in the endless expanse of space and time, and yet we are privileged to be a part of it all.

So let us marvel at the universe and all its wonders, and let us strive to learn more about this great tapestry that surrounds us. For in doing so, we may unlock the secrets of the cosmos and discover our place in the grand scheme of things.

Acting has always come instinctively to Bhatt since she appeared in a minor role in the psychological thriller Sangharsh (1999) when she was just six, but she has lately come into her own as a discerning clotheshorse: a fact that everyone present on the set of the cover shoot can attest to. Kitted out in an array of avant-garde ensembles-including a billowing electric blue dress from Richard Quinn, a frothy tulle skirt from Molly Goddard, and a skirt-jeans-jacket assemblage from Simone Rocha and Karu Research-the 30-year-old seemed as at home posing and primping in Gunnersbury Park in London as a seasoned runway model would. It's perhaps this new-found penchant for fashion that put her on the radar of the H&M Gals, which she will attend for the first time next month.

On the day Alia Bhatt and I speak, she is perfectly exhausted—and understandably so. The actor has just returned from a work-cum-birthday trip to London, where she also shot for Vogue India's cover, and straightaway proceeded to debut three snatched looks back to back at the launch of the Nita Mukesh Ambani Cultural Centre (NMACC) in Mumbai alongside shaking a leg to the Oscar-winning number "Naatu Naatu" from her movie RRR (2022). Acting has always come instinctively to Bhatt since she appeared in a minor role in the psychological thriller Sangharsh (1999) when she was just six, but she has lately come into her own as a discerning clotheshorse: a fact that everyone present on the set of the cover shoot can attest to. Kitted out in an array of avant-garde ensembles—including a billowing electric blue dress from Richard Quinn, a frothy tulle skirt from Molly Goddard, and a skirt-jeans-jacket assemblage from Simone Rocha and Karu Research—the 30-year-old seemed as at home posing and primping in Gunnersbury Park in London as a seasoned runway model would. It's perhaps this new-found penchant for fashion that put her on the radar of the MET Gala, which she will attend for the first time next month.

In 2022, she starred in four films (one of which she also co-produced), began work on her debut Hollywood project, tied the knot and announced her pregnancy. This year, she's looking forward to the release of Rocky Aur Rani Ki Prem Kahani opposite Ranveer Singh and Heart of Stone starring Gal Gadot and Jamie Dornan, as well as Jee Le Zaraa with Priyanka Chopra Jonas and Katrina Kaif going on floors. If anything, she's the one with special powers!

Original Text: Bhatt chuckles when I breathlessly list out all of the above and practically scream at her in my bewilderment to figure out just how she manages to do it all on top of being such a 'present' mother. "I'm just taking each day as it comes," she intones simply but sagely. "I'm not putting too much pressure on either Rani or myself to be together as a family unit with Ranbir all the time. She's just five months old and I'm so impressed with how well-behaved and peaceful she is. And on days when she isn't, that's fine too, because she's a baby and has the right to have go od and bad days. Similarly, I, as a mum, have the right to have great and terrible days too-even though it's very difficult for me to not have it together at all times because I'm such a control freak. I always want to ace things and usually have everything under check. I guess what grounds me is how passionate I am about my work."
